Lenine has now been permanently eliminated. One man thoroughly posted regarding internal Russia suggested tonight that while the trumvirate may not prove violently radical in policy, they probably are of those who are convinced that Russia can and should be self-contained and self-supporting, and who do not think that anything they can get from the capitalists of the west is worth jettisoning a single principle from the ark of the Soviet covenant.

The British have been led to believe from talks their representatives have had with Krassine during the last fortinght that the Russians will come to The Hague prepared to meet the Allies on all three points to be discussed—the return of private property, the recognition of debts and guaranties for credits. They still are hoping that Krassine will be able to bring about a continuance of such a policy. The French again are pointing to the news from Russia as justifying their attitude of extreme caution in dealing with the Soviets, but the Belgians ure joining the British in expressing the belief that it is fortunate the Hague conference affords a means of keeping in touch with Russia as this critical time.

Further Delay in Getting to Work.

The effect on the new development probably will be further to delay the Hague conference from getting down to work. Though H. A. Van Karnebeek, the Dutch Foreign Minister, will announce the members of the three main arrived to-day, investigates the security the Kernel by Germany. Indications are that the coming week will be spent in mere handshaking among the members of the three commissions. They are debarred from discussing principles, and it will be difficult to discuss details until it is known which way the Moscow cat is going to the last two weeks has been occupying which never had been used, and that he could sell them here at a profit of $1.

R IGA, Eatvia, June 18.—It is understood that Latvia favors the proposal made by Maxim Litvinoff for Russia for a conference to discuss the question of a reduction in the armed forces of Poland, Esthonia, Latvia and Finland and other States bor-dering on Russia. Poland has not yet been heard from, and her at-titude is considered doubtful owing to her friendship with France. The opinion of the allied observers here is that the Soviet Government is eager for a conference, believing that it will promote their interests at The Hague.

The missing men are perhaps the only witnesses whose testimony might convict Ward of Peters's murder for which he was indicted on his own statement that he killed Peters in self-defense. Some of the officials who have followed the Ward case from the start believe Jack and Charley and whoever is behind them are lying low so that at the right time they can force the Ward family to pay them to remain hidden.

The third witness whose testimony is considered of importance to the State has not been summoned and will be a surprise to the defense if the plans of the District Attorney go through.
